

Colorado Association
for Play Therapy
Fall Conference

November 1st & 2nd, 2019

Using Sandtray
Protocols in Trauma-
Informed Play
Therapy

In *Colorado Springs, CO

Featuring:

Marshall Lyles,

LPC-S, LMFT-S, RPT-S, EMDRIA Approved Consultant

Marshall has over 15 years of practice in family and play therapy. Most of Marshall's clinical practice has focused on attachment trauma and its effect on family relationships through the use of sandtray therapy within a trauma-informed context. Marshall is fortunate to have taught around the world and has written for multiple publications on the topics of sandtray, attachment, and trauma.

Training Description:

The modality of sandtray allows for implementation of play therapy skills with a wide variety of age groups, making it an efficient tool for practitioners serving diverse populations.

Friday, November 1st

Day one of this workshop will blend lecture, discussion, and play-based experiences as the basic skills and protocols of sandtray-based play therapy are introduced and practiced.

Saturday, November 2nd

On day two, lecture and experiential activities will allow participants to embrace a sandtray approach to processing traumatic material, focusing first on creating internal resources of safety and then on making meaning of difficult experiences. Other play-based and art activities will be integrated into the trauma-focused treatment planning featured in this training.

Objectives:

1. Review basic sandtray protocols and advanced play therapy skills
2. Understand necessary play therapy and sandtray protocol adaptations for adult work
3. Discuss the interpersonal neurobiology components at work in sandtray-focused play therapy
4. Address trauma-informed components of play therapy and sandtray materials/protocols
5. Practice play therapy case conceptualization skills through sandtray case study analysis
6. Lead a practice sandtray session with emphasis on utilization of play therapy's advanced skill of enlarging the meaning in a trauma-informed context
