Understanding Adoption
Issues and Engaging
Parents and Caregivers
in Play Therapy

ONLINE

Featuring:

Karen Doyle Buckwalter,
MSW, LCSW, RPT-S, Theraplay Trainer and Supervisor

Karen is Director of Program Strategy at Chaddock, a multi-service agency providing a range of residential, educational, and community-based services for youth, birth through age 21, and their families. Karen has been instrumental in the development of Chaddock's Developmental Trauma and Attachment Program® (DTAP®) that has served youth from 33 different states in the U.S. originating from 18 different countries. She has more than 30 years of experience working with children, adolescents and families. She has co-authored peer-reviewed journal articles and book chapters, as well as articles which have appeared in Adoption Today and Fostering Families Today Magazines. Karen is a wife, mother and grandmother and outside of work you will find her hiking the Blue Ridge Mountains of the Carolinas.

Training Description:

This workshop will address adoption issues and caregiver engagement.

Participants will be able to name and describe the seven core issues of adoption and how they impact the play therapy process. You will be able to list, for child and corresponding adult, attachment styles which impact play therapy treatment. This training will teach participants to be able to identify three barriers to parent engagement in play therapy and how to overcome them as well as the ability to define wondering, following, and holding as they relate to engaging parents in the play therapy process.

Friday, November 6th

Day one of this workshop will be a mixture of lecture and experiential learning.

Saturday, November 7th

On day two, we'll dive deeper through experiential teaching.

Objectives:

1. Participants will be able to name and describe the seven core issues of adoption and how they impact the play therapy process.
2. Participants will be able to list four child and corresponding adult attachment styles which impact play therapy treatment.
3. Participants will be able to identify three barriers to parent engagement in play therapy and how to overcome them.
4. Participants will be able to define wondering, following and holding as they relate to engaging parents in the play therapy process.
5. Participants will be able to define neuroception and one way it relates to engaging parents in play therapy.
6. Participants will be able to identify two steps they personally need to execute to prepare for a therapy session.
